CHILD AND FAMILY SOCIAL WORK

Parenting Coordination

A Practical Guide for Family Law Professionals

Debra K. Carter, PhD

The Parenting Coordinator (PC) makes decisions to help high-conflict parents who cannot agree to parenting decisions on their own. This professional text serves as a training manual for use in all states and provinces that utilize Parenting Coordination, addressing the intervention process and the science that supports it.

The text offers up-to-date research, a practical guide for training, service provision, and references to relevant research for quality parenting coordination practice. Specifically, this book describes the integrated model of Parenting Coordination, including the Parent Coordinator's professional role, responsibilities, protocol for service, and ethical guidelines.

Sibling Aggression

Assessment and Treatment

Jonathan Caspi, PhD

This volume addresses a significant void in family studies and child development literature by providing an empirically based guide to the causes, assessment, and treatment of sibling aggression.

Caspi considers both extreme (severe physical and sexual abuse) and lesser (competition and antagonism) forms of aggression and provides a step-by-step treatment program for five family dynamics that commonly exacerbate sibling aggression. Treatment is based on task-centered and family systems models and bolstered by case studies.

CLINICAL SOCIAL WORK

Treating Young Veterans

Promoting Resilience Through Practice and Advocacy

Diann Kelly, PhD, LMSW

Sydney Barksdale, PhD, JD

David Gitelson, PhD, LCSW, Editors

This professional and clinical resource examines the concerns, needs, and strengths of young servicemen and women who repeatedly transition between active duty to civilian life.

A unique and timely resource, it covers an array of important topics concerning these young veterans, including health and mental health issues, homelessness, employment, education, family stressors, and more. It is an ideal resource for military social workers, psychologists, and other mental health professionals, as well as social service agents and VA administrators.

SOCIAL WORK AND LEGAL ISSUES

Social Work and the Law

Becoming a Collaborative and Critically Competent Practitioner

Lyn Slater, PhD
Kara Finck, JD

Based on the author's innovative and nationally recognized prototype for inter-professional work at Fordham University, this is the only volume about social work and the legal system that is written from the social worker's perspective. Devoid of "legalese," the book is designed to help social workers develop the ability to reappraise, question, and challenge the law to best serve their clients. It aims to promote the development of a more strategic relationship with the legal system—a partnership that can achieve more creative and just solutions to social problems.

Exhaustive in scope, each chapter includes vivid case studies based on actual collaborations that illustrate the application of theory to practice. Chapters also include legal, social work, and evidence-based resources.

MENTAL HEALTH AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE

Strengthening the DSM

Incorporating Resilience and Cultural Competence

Betty Garcia, PhD, LCSW
Anne Petrovich, PhD, LCSW

This text discusses the limitations of the DSM and proposes the addition of a sixth axis to address client behaviors and contexts. The authors demonstrate the use of strengths-based multicultural diagnostic processes and applications of the proposed Axis VI to specific mental disorders. The text reviews relevant etiology and evidence-based research for each disorder and highlights current comprehensive, strength-based and culturally competent approaches to diagnosis and treatment.

Children of Substance Abusing Parents

Dynamics and Treatment

S. Lala Ashenberg Straussner, DWS, CAS (Editor)
Christine Huff Fewell, PhD, LCSW, CASA (Editor)

This book offers health care practitioners proactive programs and innovative strategies to use with this vulnerable population. Taking a comprehensive, life course approach, the authors discuss the implications and interventions at the prenatal stage, through childhood, adolescence, young adulthood, and adulthood. With this book, social workers and health care practitioners can help assess and intervene with children of substance abusing parents.

Key Features:

- Dynamics in families with substance abusing parents and treatment implications
- Issues across the life span of children of substance abusing parents

GERONTOLOGICAL SOCIAL WORK

Cognitive Behavior Therapy with Older Adults

Innovations Across Care Settings

Kristen H. Sorocco, PhD
Sean Lauderdale, PhD

A one-stop resource for core discipline practitioners who provide mental health services to the geriatric population, Cognitive Behavior Therapy with Older Adults presents strategies for integrating cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT) skills and therapies into various health care settings for aging patients.

Cognitive Behavior Therapy with Older Adults is divided into key two parts: CBT for common mental health problems for older adults and innovations across settings in which older adults are present. Evidence-based and provider-friendly, it emphasizes adapting CBT specifically for the aging population and its specific needs.

Trauma Counseling

Theories and Interventions

Lisa Lopez Levers, PhD, LPC, CRC (Editor)

As of 2009, The Council of Accreditation and Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) mandated that all counseling programs must address trauma within their curriculum. This book exceeds the requirements of CACREP standards by providing a comprehensive review of the many causes of trauma, including interpersonal violence, hate crimes, school violence, and war and terrorism. It includes evidence-based trauma counseling techniques and integrates the latest findings from neuropsychology and psychopharmacology. It also addresses macro-level issues such as community violence. This interdisciplinary textbook will be of tremendous use to graduate counseling students and professional counselors, as well as social workers, psychologists, and other human service providers.

COUNSELING

Grief Therapy with Latinos Integrating Culture for Clinicians

Carmen Vazquez, PhD
Dinelia Rosa, PhD

This book serves as both a graduate textbook and clinical reference that helps in the understanding of relevant cultural values and their effect on the grieving process. Grief Therapy with Latinos also addresses the application of specific interventions in a culturally appropriate manner, including the importance of language in grief therapy, psychology, and counseling with a Latino population.

The main focus of this book is to identify underlying pathologies, depressions, or anxieties that could have existed before, and the relevance of the cultural components that can interfere with the adaptation to and the resolution of grief.

Key Features:

- Addresses culturally specific and diverse narratives of loss to illustrate cultural revelations in the grief process and the clinical assessment of denial and spirituality
- Discusses the relevance of language in the expression of grief, assessment, and treatment
- Presents clear and easy-to-read grief therapy approaches and methods
- Includes adaptations of traditional psychotherapeutic techniques, incorporating relevant cultural values

Helping the Bereaved College Student

David Balk, PhD

Approximately one-fourth of all college students suffer the loss of a family member or friend during their college career, yet the prevalence of bereavement on the college campus is largely unrecognized—sometimes by even the bereaved students themselves. This volume is the first to address the ways in which bereavement may affect the college student, particularly during the first year following a loss, and provides guidance for mental health professionals on how best to treat this underserved population.

REHABILITATION COUNSELING

The Professional Practice of Rehabilitation Counseling

Dennis R. Maki, PhD, CRC, NCC
Vilia Tarvydas, PhD

Based on the Handbook of Rehabilitation Counseling (Rigger/Maki 2004), this new volume has been completely revised and updated to accommodate the overarching changes that have recently occurred in the field. It reflects the new, accepted definition of rehabilitation counseling as a specialization within the field of counseling and demonstrates how the knowledge, skills and attitudes of rehabilitation counseling complement those of mental health counseling.
